About Sheepskin

Sheepskin is a natural material and therefore may vary in terms of its structure and colour.

Sheepskin functions as a natural temperature regulator, keeping you cool in summer and cosy in winter. The ability of wool to absorb moisture reduces friction and contributes to a high degree of comfort in a piece of furniture made out of curly sheepskin.

Skandilock Sheepskins come from some of the most accomplished sheep farmers in Australia. They use only sheep and lamb of the type crossbred, which guarantee a top-quality skin.

The product is safe to use even if you suffer from any food animal allergy.

Skandilock skins are dressed and dyed according to high standards of environmental care and animal welfare. All products originate from sheep/lamb that has been raised to produce wool or meat.

Care Instructions Sheepskin Furniture

In order to preserve the original condition of your sheepskin furniture, vacuum clean and air regularly.

- Stains should be immediately soaked with water.
- Clean with a sponge, lukewarm water and a mild wool shampoo.
- Do not bleach or iron.
- Avoid placing the furniture in direct sunlight as colour changes in the wool may occur.
